OUR COMMITMENTS

Interprofessional Learning

USask has the largest cluster of health science disciplines in Canada with six colleges and three schools. Our students, faculty and staff are encouraged to collaborate with other health science disciplines, such as Medicine, Pharmacy and Public Health. This encourages collaboration among interprofessional teams to investigate and solve health problems both locally and globally.

Learn Where You Live

USask College of Nursing uses a distributive learning approach, enabling both undergraduate and graduate learners to learn where they live. By using unique and innovative technology to support teaching and learning distributively, USask College of Nursing is able to offer programming at nursing campuses in Regina, Saskatoon and Prince Albert, as well as, at sites in La Ronge, Île-à-la-Crosse and Yorkton.

Indigenous Student Success

The College of Nursing has a long history of Indigenous student success and is recognized as having the highest number of self-declared Indigenous nursing students in the country. The University of Saskatchewan Community of Aboriginal Nursing (UCAN) recruits and supports Indigenous students interested in the College of Nursing.

Research

The University of Saskatchewan is one of Canada's top 15 research intensive universities. The College of Nursing plays an active role in the university's strong research culture. Working together, we are tackling some of the most pressing health-care issues and leading innovations in health-care education. Our faculty have been awarded provincial, national and international funding and have forged strong alliances with community partners and researchers around the globe. They are recognized as leaders in their fields of research and professional practice and for their contributions to advance the health of Canadians.

The College of Nursing's signature research areas include:

- Community-engaged health and nursing research
- Health equity research
- Innovations in health systems and education research
