Hello. My name is Dr. Solina Richter. I am the Dean at the University of Saskatchewan College of Nursing.

In May, in Canada, we celebrate National Nursing Week. May 9th till 15th, we recognize the nursing profession and all the wonderful nurses who make a difference each and every day. Nurses are important, valued members of the healthcare team and make up the largest healthcare profession in the world.

The Canadian Nurses Association has decided to use “We Answer The Call” as the theme again for the 2022 National Nursing Week. The nursing profession was brought to the forefront as a result of the pandemic and over the course of the last two years, we have seen time and time again how nurses answer the call.

Nurses are courageous and they persevere in the most difficult of situations. Whether it’s working directly with patients and clients on the front lines, educating the nurses of tomorrow, or conducting research, nursing plays a valuable role.

Today, I thank all the incredible nurses who answer the call.

Our alumni, our faculty, our staff, and our students.....we see all you do. We appreciate you.

And above all, we thank you, for being the nurses and future nurses the world needs.
